

Hands On Bioprocessing II Meeting

21st April 2015 - Manchester University

Broadley-James is pleased to support the one day meeting, Hands On Bioprocessing II, organised by the IChemE, Biochemical Engineering Special Interest Group, it is designed as an interactive, hands on, learning forum where students and industrialists alike can "meet the supplier base" and gain an insight into new and forthcoming technologies in the biotechnology arena. Broadley-James will be featuring the new SegFlow 1200 Automated Bioreactor Sampling System from Flownamics Inc. The title of the presentation is "5 good reasons why you should automate your vessel sampling". For more information or to register go here.
